Secret AFL Fund Revealed

Doria Tells Senate Probers That He Kept Money in Office Storeroom

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former union official Anthony J. Doria today said he once maintained a secret cache of union money which only one other person, the union's president, knew about.

Doria, former secretary - treasurer of the old AFL United Auto Workers, told the Senate Rackets Committee he considered the money union property but did not enter it on the union's books. The money, he said, was hidden under papers in an office storeroom.

He said only union President Earl Heaton knew of the money, and Heaton did not know the combination to the box in which it was hidden. He said Heaton authorized him to use the money, which the committee said amounted to "tens of thousands of dollars." But Doria said he never put it to personal use.

Doria insisted that he did not report the money — which represented funds of defunct locals—on the union's ledgers because the executive board never authorized him to. He said such authorization was required by the union constitution.

"It's a lame constitution if that's all it required," said Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

Doria received a going away present of $80,000 from the union when he quit.

Doria, a bulky buddy of New York labor racketeer Johnny Dio, resigned last February as secretary-treasurer of the Allied Industrial Workers Union, formerly known as the AFL United Auto Workers.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen about 10 other witnesses were also called including Joseph Curcio and Harry Davidoff, officials of the UAW-AFL Local 649 in New York.

Local 649 was identified by the committee as Dio's mother local in his string of racket - ridden New York units of the UAW-AFL and a key unit in a scheme to set up paper locals of Teamsters to help his friend, James R. Hoffa, win control of the Teamsters in New York.

It was signed by Khrushchev, Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl and East German Communist Leader Walter Ulbricht.

California Man Will Be Arraigned On Murder Charge

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP) — Orville Kittle, 35, a California, Pa., parolee from the Moundsville (W. Va. State Penitentiary, will be arraigned here today on a murder charge in the shooting of his nephew.

Kittle, being held in custody at the state police barracks here, shot his nephew, Wayne Lasko, 26, of Ceveland, through the heart with a .38 caliber pistol Saturday night. Police said the shooting occurred when Lasko attempted to disarm Kittle.

Kittle's arraignment originally was scheduled for Monday but was postponed.

The shooting occurred at the home of Lasko's mother, Mrs. Steve Barnett, located on Route 88 between West Brownsville and California, where Speers Borough Police Chief Charles Hazlett had followed Kittle.

Hazlett said he and Sherman Ziskind, owner of Holly Inn at Speers, had sought to question Kittle about a recent robbery at the inn when the parole seized Hazlett's gun from its holster. Lasko was killed instantly when he attempted to disarm Kittle.

Kittle was paroled from the Moundsville prison last February after serving time for burglary and resisting arrest.

Hearings On Steel Recessed

Senate Plans to Recall US Steel Official Thursday For More Queries

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate committee investigating steel industry pricing practices declared a two-day recess today in its verbal sparring with Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), head of the Senate Antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, said he would recall Blough for a fifth round Thursday morning in their duel over whether the steel industry "administers prices" and why all main producers duplicated U.S. Steel's July 1 $6-a-ton increase.

The Tennessee Senator and his group are seeking to learn whether the latest industry-wide price boost was justified.

The fourth day of the running battle between Kefauver and Blough closed Monday with the steel executive and the Senator still in disagreement over the concept of the word "competition." Blough said similarity in steel prices does not indicate a lack of competition and declared he did not believe Kefauver understood the concept of the word.

Blough's Reply

Kefauver constantly pressed Blough to admit that there would be more "competition" if steel companies offered different prices. Blough finally countered with "I don't think you understand competition."

"Your statement that one price has to be lower than another to have competition simply is not a practical way of running any kind of long range manufacturing operation," Blough added. He said 90 per cent of all the items sold in the United States have "administered prices" of one kind or another.

Denies Price Fix

Blough denied that the big steel companies get together and fix price increases.

Blough and Robert C. Tyson, U.S. Steel's finance committee chairman, told Kefauver it was impossible to determine exactly how much of the July 1 steel price increase was attributable to the steelworkers contract. But they stressed that any wage boost to the steelworkers automatically leads to similar raises for workers under other contracts and for salaried non-union workers.

The company knew employment costs were going up about six per cent with total costs up about 6½ per cent, Blough said, "and on the basis of that we increased prices about four per cent."

Masontown Man Held for Murder

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — A murder charge against Joseph Watreas, 29, accused in the slaying of an elderly storekeeper, will be presented to the September grand jury during the week of Aug. 23, Dist. Atty. Joseph E. Kovach said Monday.

Watreas, of Masontown, a miner is accused of strangling Alvin Partridge, 81, in the victim's Masontown grocery store July 29.

Arrested by FBI agents in Miami, Fla., last week, Watreas agreed Monday to return to Pennsylvania. He was remanded to the custody of Pennsylvania state police who will return him to Fayette County.

Movie Producer Was American Counterspy

NEW YORK (UP)—Hollywood movie producer Boris Morros Monday related the bizarre story of his 12 years as an American counterspy.

For the first time, the 62-year-old, Russian-born Morros told how he gained the trust of the Soviet secret police as a spy, while taking orders from the FBI. From 1945 until early this year, when he became suspect by the Russians, Morros said he acted as a counter espionage agent for the United States.

Morros, who composed "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," disclosed the details of his double-life at a press conference. Speaking with a heavy Russian accent, Morros spoke pridefully of his association with the FBI and of his counterspy activities. On several occasions, a government attorney had to restrain him from telling too much.

The identification of Morros as an FBI counterspy first was disclosed with the arrests of Jack and Myra Soble and Jacob Albam as Soviet spies. His testimony resulted in their indictment and also the indictment of an American couple now living in Paris.

Morros told how, as a counterspy, he made 68 trips to Europe to attend meetings with other spies and the Russian secret police. The movie producer said he became "a Russian agent" at the request of the Soviets in 1945—after first going to the FBI. On all of his overseas trips, two FBI agents were assigned to cover him, and always remained close by.

Of his Russian associates, he said:

"I hated everything they stood for, and when I had to express myself to high Russian officials and to American spies employed by them in terms supporting their vicious ideology I really had to do a more realistic acting job than any of the players I had ever directed in Hollywood."

Bailey, Two Others, Are Promoted by Pittsburgh Steel

Three promotions were announced today by Pittsburgh Steel Co.

David R. Bailey has been named as assistant to the superintendent of the open hearth department of the firm's Monessen plant; Ralph Thomas Swaney, foreman in the Allenport Plant's cold draw department, and William Sowden, Jr., turn foreman in Allenport's No. 2 mill in the tube department.

The promotions are effective immediately, Carl A. Breuer, vice president-operations, announced.

For the past 18 months, Bailey had served as works metallurgist at the Monessen plant.

A native of Renton, Pa., he graduated in metallurgy at Penn State University. After post-graduate training in statistical analysis, he became associated with the Sheffield Steel Corp. in Texas as a process metallurgist. He joined Pittsburgh Steel as a blast furnace metallurgist, in 1952, serving in that position until January, 1956, when he became works metallurgist.

From North Charleroi

Bailey and his wife, Lois, have three children. They live at 317 Sheppard Ave., North Charleroi.

Swaney joined Pittsburgh Steel Company in 1923 as a benchman in the Allenport Works. Five years later he became a gauger there, the position he held until his promotion. Swaney and his wife, Ethel D., live in Allenport, the place of his birth.

Sowden started with Pittsburgh Steel at the Allenport Works 20 years ago as a chipper. He advanced through several jobs in the mill until 1956 when he became an elongator operator. Sowden and his wife, Jean, have a son, William III. They live at 409 Bluff St., Belle Vernon.

Ike Tells GOP Leaders 'No' to CR Compromise

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican congressional leaders said at the White House today that President Eisenhower definitely will not compromise on the civil rights bill in return for more favorable congressional treatment of his foreign aid program.

After a lengthy meeting between the President and GOP congressional leaders, Sen. William F. Knowland denied in blunt terms a report that the Chief Executive may be willing to accept a compromise on civil rights "if he gets more of what he wants on foreign aid."

"The President is not trading the constitutional rights of any American to vote for any piece of legislation," the Senate Republican leader said. "And also, the national defense of our country should not be put on the trading block."

House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said that although House Republicans will fight to pass "a real bill" at this session, it may be better to recess Congress or have the President call both Houses back into special session in November rather than accept the Senate version of the bill.

Martin added that the idea of a possible session was entirely his and was not discussed this morning with the President.

Jeannette Plant Lays Off 79 Men

Elliott Company officials reported 79 employes in its Crocker - Wheeler plant in Jeannette have been given layoff notices. A decline in sales of electric motors, was cited as the reason for the cutback.

Those furloughed represent about 13 per cent of the plant's employes.

School Directors Are Threatened

Several school directors in Jeannette revealed today that they had received "threatening" phone calls because of their recent decision to close an elementary school.

The directors told authorities the callers warned them "be carefull . . . a truck may run into your house."

Highway Dept. Suspends District Man, Two Others

Henry Zermani, of R. D. 1, Monongahela, today was one of three state Highways Department supervisors suspended without pay pending completion of an investigation into operations in Greene and Washington counties.

Zermani, assigned as an assistant maintenance superintendent, receives $5,065 annually.

Also suspended were John Lapping, Waynesburg, a $6,800 per year engineer assigned to the Uniontown District office; and C. Chesney Wood, Waynesburg, maintenance superintendent for Greene County, $6,200.

The inquiry is centered around the purchase of maintenance material in the two counties. However, Highway Department officials declined to comment on the case.

Another Fire in Roscoe Detroys Unoccupied House

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed an unoccupied house in Roscoe yesterday afternoon and damaged a nearby home.

Razed by the flames was a two-story frame dwelling on Duncan St. Empty for some time, the house was owned by a Mr. Saeli, of California.

The side of a nearby house caught fire from the intense heat, but firemen managed to save the dwelling owned by Elmer Obitko, a Washington County detective.

Roscoe Fire Chief Clyde Brokaw estimated damage to the unoccupied house at $5,000 and damage to the Obitko home at $600.

Firemen from both Roscoe and Stockdale battled the blaze for more than two hours.

Just last Friday, another fire destroyed the Interstate Paper Supply Co. plant in Roscoe, causing damage estimated at $50,000.

Disperse Rebels In Persian Gulf

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (UP)—A thousand Bedouins from nine tribes loyal to the Sultan of Muscat and Oman moved in from the hills today like conquerors to take over territory wrested from rebel forces in the nearly ended war.

The sultan's troops were reported advancing from the east and west into the heart of rebel territory where only two forts are still flying the flag of the rebel Imam of Oman. They were Tanuf and Jabrin, some 20 miles west of Nizwa.

The loyal forces were reported to have linked up at the Birkat El-Mauz road in their drive toward the fleeing rebels. This enabled reopening of the road from the capital city of Muscat to Fahud, site of a British oil xplortion mission.

RED CHINA TOUR — One of some 50 American students who will tour Red China from the World Youth festival in Moscow is 19-year-old Ginger Mattox (above), San Francisco State college coed. It's a three-week, all expenses tour.

State Department Issues Warning On China Trip

WASHINGTON (UP)—The State Department has asked the American Embassy in Moscow to make last-minute efforts to warn American youths they may be in trouble if they travel to Red China.

Officials at the same time said the department is considering possible administrative and legal action if the group of Americans ignores government warnings and goes to Peiping from the Moscow Youth Festival.

Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson has warned a few of the more than 40 Americans planning the trip of possible consequences. He has said fines and legal action may follow and passports of those making the trip may not be renewed when they expire.

The State Department said Monday travel to Red China would be "subversive of the well known foreign policies" of the United States and a violation of passport regulations. The government has sought to ban American travel to Red China although three American newsmen entered the country late last year for a short visit.

Four young persons, including two from Monessen, were treated at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital late last night when the car in which they were riding crashed on Route 88 near Monongahela.

Sitdown Streetcar Strike Touches off Violence in Lodz

LODZ, Poland (UP)—The government rushed police reinforcements today from Warsaw to Lodz, Poland's second largest city, where a sitdown streetcar strike threatened to touch off a new wave of "bread and freedom" riots.

After dangerous clashes Monday striking streetcar workers had barricaded themselves in the city's two biggest trolley terminals. They vowed they would not come out until their wage demands are met.

The situation was tense and ugly.

Militiamen (police) armed with pistols and clubs surrounded the two depots, and police radio cars swarmed in the streets. The license plates of the prowl cars showed that many of them had moved in from the capital.

Trolley Traffic Halts

Streetcar traffic halted completely. Army trucks shuttled along the main trolley routes providing substitute transportation for stranded wayfarers.

The truck drivers were the only troops in evidence in the city early today.

(Rumors circulating in Warsaw said Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka has assigned Gen. Komar, chief of internal security, and Gen. Jan Frey - Bielicki, commander of the air force, to deal with "any emergency.")

Recall Freedom Riots

The walkout was the most serious defiance of Communist authority since the freedom riots at Poznan. Those bloody riots brought a "liberalized" regime to Poland and significant concessions to workers and other citizens.

Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka ordered in the troops and secret police when it became apparent new violence might flare in Lodz, Poland's second biggest city and its main textile center.

Workers, especially women, were angered after reading today's newspapers which called the strikers "hooligans" and accused them of attacking police with clubs.

The strikers said the stories in the Communist newspapers Aziennik Lodzki and Glos Robotniczi were "lies" and that the militia with fixed bayonets attacked them with tear gas in Monday's rioting.

Five Women Injured

The strikers said five women were hospitalized after one clash.

They reported the trouble started when police and a party of Communist Party activists boarded one trolley and tried to get it moving. The strikers threw them off and the militia moved in.

Early today it appeared that only the use of force by the militia and police could dislodge the strikers from the main depot and that the strikers appeared to sit down until their demands are met.

It did not appear that other workers in Lodz would join the streetcar employes in the strike.

Donora Community Picnic Tomorrow

The annual Donora Community Picnic will be held tomorrow at Kennywood Park.

Buses will leave the depot at 421 McKean Ave. from 9:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. Buses will return between 6:30 and 11 p. m.

Accused Russian Spy Appears for Hearing Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Accused Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel appears in U.S. District Court today for a hearing on espionage charges.

Unless he makes last-minute arrangements, Abel will have no lawyer to represent him.

Abel, accused of conspiring to send information about U.S. armed forces to Russia, sought to retain John J. Abt as his counsel, but the sometimes attorney for the Communist Party told Abel it was impossible for him to take the case because of "prior commitments."

The purpose of the hearing is to settle the matter of bail and permit Abel to enter a plea. He has been held without bail at the Federal House of Detention in Manhattan.

Should Abel appear without an attorney, Federal Judge Matthew T. Baruzzo is expected to appoint one for him. An adjournment of at least a week is almost certain because any attorney selected will want time to study the indictment and talk to Abel.

Rarick Denies Any Management Support

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Donald C. Rarick, the McKeesport, Pa., millworker who opposed David J. McDonald for the presidency of the United Steelworkers Union last February, denied today "management sources" contributed to his campaign fund.

Robert Kennedy, counsel for the Senate Rackets Committee, noted in a letter to both McDonald and Rarick that he had received allegations that Rarick received financial aid from management to oppose McDonald.

According to Atty. James Ashton, counsel for Rarick and his Dues Protest Committee, most of Rarick's funds came from rank and file donations. Support also was received from several locals backing his candidacy.

The Senate committee made identical requests of both McDonald and Rarick to furnish an accounting of campaign receipts and expenditures.

Ashton said a certified public accountant in McKeesport was working to prepare an accounting of money contributed to and spent by Rarick. "He didn't receive a blessed cent from any management source," Ashton said.

McDonald, who defeated Rarick by just under a 2-to-1 margin for the union presidency, replied to the Senate committee last Saturday, promising a full audit of personal and union expenditures.

Answering Kennedy's request for information on alleged improprities in connection with the election campaign, McDonald said to the best of his knowledge no union funds were used on his behalf.

Delay Teamsters Showdown

Union Asks AFL-CIO For Time

CHICAGO (UP)—The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee will agree to postpone an Aug. 28 showdown with the Teamsters' Union if the Teamsters pledge to show up later, a committee source said today.

The committee's offer countered a request by the giant trucking union for a fourth delay in the hearings on charges of corrupt domination by the Teamsters' top leadership.

High sources at the AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting viewed the union's request as the latest move in a cat-and-mouse game between the ethical practices group and the Teamsters. After summer-long delays, the committee had said the Aug. 28 date would be the Teamsters' last chance to rebut the charges.

Teamsters' Secretary - Treasurer John F. English said his union's executive board again postponed its meeting, to Aug. 26 in Los Angeles, because several high officials must testify before the Senate Rackets Committee next week.

Draft Reply

The board will draft a reply to the accusations leveled by the ethical practices group.

Ethical Committee Chairman Al J. Hayes set a new deadline—Sept. 7—for closing the book on the Teamsters' case. Hayes said he will submit the committee's final report to a special meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council in mid-September.

AFL-CIO sources said the council intends to act before the Teamsters' convention Sept. 30 in Miami Beach. The nation's largest union, with 1,400,000 members, could face expulsion from the federation unless it complies with clean-up directives.

Lightning May Have Caused Canadian Crash

ISSOUDUN, Que. (UP)—A bolt of lightning may have been the cause of Sunday's crash of a chartered airliner that took 79 lives in Canada's worst air disaster, an investigator said today.

However, most experts believed that either severe thunderstorm turbulence or pilot fatigue resulted in the crash of the four-engine DC4 Maritime Central Airways plane. All 73 passengers and six crewmembers died when the aircraft crashed and exploded Sunday afternoon in a swamp, 15 miles south of Quebec City. The craft, bound for Toronto, was carrying a group of British war veterans and their families on the return flight from a vacation in the British Isles.

U.S. authorities in Washington noted that in aviation annals nly one crash of a commercial airliner has been blamed on lightning. In 1940, a commercial DC3 was struck by lightning over Lovettsville, Va., and plunged to earth at an estimated 300 miles an hour.

Det. Lt. Martin Healey, in charge of the provincial investigation of Sunday's crash, said "nothing is known for sure, but we are not overlooking the possibility that the storm had some part in the accident."

Informant Called in Confidential Case

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The prosecution in the Confidential Magazine libel trial has indicated it will call party girl Ronnie Quillan to the stand today or Wednesday to tell of alleged "call girl" methods of collecting movieland gossip.

Deputy Dist. Atty. William Ritzi said he would call Lester Grady, former editor of Whisper Magazine, to the stand today and indicated he would follow Grady with Miss Quillan.

Miss Quillan, identified as a "call girl" who supplied Confidential with inside information about movie scandals, made headlines in 1950 when she was arrested for slashing Negro night club singer Billy Daniels in a pre-dawn Hollywood fracas.

It took 35 stitches to close the gaping wound that extended from Daniels' cheek to his throat.

Denies Charge

The red-haired Miss Quillan, who said then that she was an actress, told police at the time of her arrest that Daniels had tried to attack her. Daniels denied the charge.

One of the biggest bundles of dirty linen to date in the trial was unwrapped Monday and it belonged to the biggest box office hero in movie history — Clark Gable.

Gable immediately denied from his Hawaii vacation spot, testimony that he had an affair with a party girl but the frank allegations set off renewed behind-the-scenes maneuvers to keep the boudoir lives of the stars out of the trial.

Both the prosecution and defense momentarily were expected to pull new tricks out of the legal hat in an attempt to compromise and prevent calling to the stand more than 100 Hollywood luminaries.

First of Bombshells

The defense has subpenaed celebrities to tell "the truth" about their intimate off-screen lives and the prosecution is striving to circumvent the testimony.

The naming of Gable and a girl-about-Hollywood as a cozy twosome having an affair while the girl, sloe-eyed Francesca De Scaffa, ferreted out intimate details of Gable's first marriage was the first of the expected bombshells to fall in what could be filmland's spiciest production.

However, Gable vacationing in Hawaii with his wife denied the testimony that he had an affair with Miss De Scaffa and revealed to her spicy tidbits about his first wife, drama coach Josephine Dillon. He told United Press, "To my knowledge I never met the young lady."

Desi Arnaz Named

Cuban band leader Desi Arnaz, the husband of Lucille Ball of "I Love Lucy" fame, was the second celebrity to be involved in embarrassing testimony. The actor-musician was linked with a Hollywood call girl.

It was what the prosecution had been hoping would not happen. The prosecution, with widespread support from many segments of the movie industry, originally had sought to block the trial with a compromise offer to the defense—only to have Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker announce that there would be "no deals" in his court.

The court has under advisement a defense brief calling for dismissal of the case on grounds the conspiracy to commit criminal libel—if true—was nationwide and does not fall under the jurisdiction of a California court.

Ex Convict Fails To Scare Minister But Steals Car

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UP)—A Methodist minister refused an armed ex-convict's demand for safe conduct to Michigan Sunday. The fugitive stole the minister's car and fled alone.

The Rev. Christian Kocher, 45, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, said a young man with black hair entered the parsonage through an open back door at 6:30 a.m. while the minister prepared his Sunday sermon.

The young man, Rev. Kocher said, was very nervous and demanded that the minister drive him to Michigan.

He told Rev. Kocher he was "so deeply involved" in crime that he was going to "shoot his way" to freedom. When Rev. Kocher refused to accompany him, the convict pulled a revolver from his jacket.

"I told him I was going to deliver my sermon on time." Rev. Kocher told the United Press, "and that if he took a delight in shooting to go ahead."

The ex-convict, unidentified but known to Indiana police, took the keys to Kocher's 1954 automobile and drove off after an hour of pleas and threats. He said he would leave the car at Chicago.

The minister delivered his sermon on schedule.

Leader Says He Is Proud of His Farm Background

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader, proud of his farm background, thinks there is none better.

In fact, he said here Monday night, the farm is "about the only place left where you can still be the whole wheel and not just a cog."

"These days you may not make a fortune on the farm, but you can make a life," he said.

The governor opened the state's 33rd annual 4-H Club week with a challenge to Pennsylvania young farmers to uphold the club's ideals by being better members of the community, the state and the nation.

He cited 4-H as a program of "juvenile dedication instead of juvenile delinquency" and said the "brightest young people are staying on the farm these days, not only because it's one of the toughest fields, but because it requires a lot of intelligent application."

Leader spoke of his early years on his father's York County farm and told his youthful audience he certainly never thought he'd want to be a farmer when he grew up. But he changed his mind, he said, after completing college and servmore than three years in the Navy in World War II.

The governor urged his young listeners to take an interest in government and "take advantage of all your chances for education and for doing your part in making government better."

Mild Flu Cases Aboard Ship

NEW YORK (UP) — A ship carrying European exchange students docked here today with about 50 mild cases of influenza aboard and the vessel's doctor said as many as 200 had been stricken during the voyage from Rotterdam.

The Arosa Sky of the Arosa Lines pulled beside a Hudson River pier shortly after 8 a.m. E.D.T. with about 800 students, but no one was allowed to leave the ship pending completion of physical checkups by health authorities.

Passengers began moving off the vessel at 11:20 a.m. E.D.T., more than three hours after it docked.

McSorley Trial Set for Sept. 23

HARRISBURG (UP)—Suspended Turnpike Commission Chairman G. Franklin McSorley will stand trial in Dauphin County Court here Sept. 23 on charges of misconduct in office.

McSorley, suspended from office by order of Gov. George M. Leader last January, is charged with retaining on the commission payroll a chauffeur for former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, his predecessor.

Continue Search For Missing Boy

BRAZIL, Ind. (UP) — A thousand volunteers today began an inch-by-inch search of woodlands, water-filled mine strips and a "haunted house" area for a 7-year-old boy police are convinced met with foul play.

A general scouring of the area Monday failed to turn up any clues as to the whereabouts of Billy Earl Martin, missing since Saturday.

NEW YORK (UP)—Dow Jones & Co., Inc., publishers of the Wall Street Journal, announced Monday the firm and the Dow Jones Foundation would sponsor and finance a 12-month study to find out why many qualified young men do not seek careers in the field of journalism.

Ike Opposes Any New Whack at Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UP) — A budding congressional drive aimed at taking another whack at the foreign aid program today ran against presidential opposition.

Economy-bloc congressmen planned to try to slash possibly hundreds of millions of dollars from the program when its appropriations bill comes up.

That's expected shortly after Congress approves a House-Senate compromise bill authorizing $3,336,000,000 for foreign aid—about 500 million less than President Eisenhower requested.

Some lawmakers predict Congress won't provide more than about three billion in cash for the program.

Eisenhower showed his concern Monday night by calling in congressional leaders to discuss the program at an extraordinary White House meeting. He appealed to them to hold the line against further cuts.

Other congressional news:

Civil Rights: The President was expected to give support to House GOP leaders pressing for a tougher civil rights bill despite delays in passage. House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said no bill was better than the modified Senate version. However, Senate GOP Leader William Knowland wants a bill passed this year—even if it means taking the Senate version as it stands with the jury trial amendment modified.

Postal: Backers of the postal increase bill forecast passage in the House. But chances of getting the bill through the Senate this year appeared slim. The heart of the bill is a one-cent boost in the cost of mailing a letter.

Power: The Senate passed the 600-million-dollar Niagara power project bill. The bill was sent to the White House for signing.

FBI Files: A Senate judiciary subcommittee has drafted a substitute bill aimed at preventing legalized raids on Federal Bureau of Investigation files. The new draft was drawn up to meet objections of some senators. The bill is an outgrowth of the Supreme Court decision that defendants be allowed to see FBI files containing evidence against them.

Construction: The Senate passed the $1,20,413,000 military construction bill. The authorization bill would finance construction of bases and other military facilities around the world. It was sent back to the House which passed a bigger program earlier.

District Highway Dept. Employes Are Suspended

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP)—The state Highways Department has suspended two supervisory employes in southwestern Pennsylvania, it was disclosed Monday night.

Those suspended were C. Chesney Wood, superintendent of highway maintenance in Greene County, and John Lapping, assistant district engineer in Greene, Fayette, Westmoreland and Washington counties. Both live near Waynesburg.

The suspensions were disclosed at a meeting of county Democratic leaders. It was decided to take steps to obtain a public hearing in the case in order to determine the reasons for the suspensions.

Wood and Lapping were informed of the suspensions Friday in telegrams sent by Raymond C. Campbell, who is acting as executive officer of the Highways Department while Highways Secretary Joseph Lawler is on vacation.

The telegrams said the suspensions were recommended by John Rezzole, department chief counsel.

To Draft 7,000 Men in October

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department has issued a 7,000-man draft call for the Army in October—the smallest monthly call since April, 1956.

The Army took 8,000 draftees in September and 11,000 in August. From April through July the monthly draft call was 13,000.

The reduced draft calls reflect Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's recent order to trim military strength by 100,000 men by next Jan. 1.

Wilson told his news conference last Wednesday that he expected draft calls to level off at 7,000 or 8,000 men a month.

15th Postponement Of Nuclear Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission lost a battle with the weather early today and was forced to call the 15th postponement in the firing of its Shasta nuclear device.

The test was set for 5 a.m. p.d t, but less than an hour before the device was to be triggered atop a 500-foot tower scientists decided that wind conditions could carry fallout over populated areas near the Nevada Proving Grounds. The AEC will try again at the same time Wednesday.

Expect National Epidemic Of Asiatic Flu in September

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Public health officials think it is increasingly probable that this country will have an epidemic of Asiatic influenza.

On the wall of Dr. William H. Stewart's office is a big map of the United States. It is already liberally sprinkled with red dots which indicate localized outbreaks in 13 states from Rhode Island to California.

Dr. Stewart is assistant to the surgeon general, U.S. Public Health Service. His main job these days is preparing for the expected epidemic.

His map depicts with long red arrows how the disease has been "seeded" all over the country—by Boy Scouts returning from their annual jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.; by college girls who attended a national conference at Grinnel, Iowa; by participants in a youth meeting at Davis, Calif.; by sailors from ships which came from the Far East to San Diego, Calif., Newport, R. I., and Norfolk, Va.; and by many individual travelers.

The Question: When?

The big question is when these localized outbreaks — still rather widely scattered—will flare into an epidemic.

Historically, most flu epidemics in this country flare up in late October or November. But the deadly one of 1918 began in Boston at the end of August and swept across the nation like a great tidal wave within four weeks.

The best guess of public health experts at the moment is that the national epidemic is not likely to start before Sept. 15. After that, the probability will grow greater with each passing day.

Drug manufacturers are working shifts around the clock to produce a new vaccine which is expected to give about 70 per cent protection against Asiatic flu. But at best, only about five million shots will be available to civilians by Sept. 15. After that, vaccine will be pouring into civilian medical channels at a rate of about five million doses a week.

It takes 10 to 14 days for the vaccine to take effect. So it is obvious that an early epidemic would find comparatively few civilians inoculated.

Although no formal system of rationing or priorities is planned, the Public Health Service is urging that doctors, nurses and hospital workers get their shots at the first opportunity. It is imperative that they stay on their feet during an epidemic to take care of the minority of patients who will develop serious complications.

Other groups who perform essential community services—such as firemen, police, transportation workers—also are being asked to get vaccinated early.

Elderly people who have chronic ailments, such as heart disease or tuberculosis, are particularly vulnerable to influenza. It is desirable that as many of these as possible be protected by vaccine.

Babies under 18 months of age also are susceptible to pneumonia resulting from flu, but they sometimes have an adverse reaction to the vaccine. The health service has asked the American Academy of Pediatrics to recommend whether infants should be vaccinated, and if so, whether a reduced dose is indicated.

What about the average healthy child or adult? Is it desirable for him to be vaccinated? The Public Health Service says yes, if supplies are available. If not, don't fret about it.

Remember that you aren't likely to die of Asiatic flu. The death rate was only two per 1,000 cases in Asia, where medical facilities are notoriously inadequate. So far in this country it has been much lower — three deaths recorded among about 20,000 cases.

Arab States Warned of Reds

Lebanon Head Asks For Meeting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (CP)—President Camille Chamoun said today Communist infiltration into the Middle East is at such a "highly dangerous" level that it threatens the very existence of the Mideast nations.

Chamoun suggested a meeting of the heads of all the Arab states as the only way to clear the general political atmosphere.

Chamoun made his observations in an exclusive interview at his Beiteddine presidential palace 34 miles from Beirut. The 57 year-old French - educated president ranged through problems facing the Middle East today.

"I believe the Arab states should set aside the question of the duel between the East and West and concentrate on their vital interests in attempting to find a solution compatible with a tradition of religion, civilzaton and culture," he said.

Highly Dangerous

"I earnestly believe that Communist infiltration ihto the Middle East is highly dangerous to the very existence of the Middle East nations as sovereign states."

Chamoun sad he so far had received "favorable reaction" to his appeal for a top-level Arab conference in which the heads of the Arab states would meet. He said Iraq and Jordan actively favor the idea and that other Arab capitals are still studying the general political atmosphere in the light of recent Middle East developments.

"Should all members agree to the idea then Lebanon would approach them through diplomatic channels in order to agree to a place and date," he said.

No Disagreement

As for present disagreements between Arab states, Chamoun said, "actually there's disagreement on tendencies rather than on the essence of existing problems."

Chamoun, whose adoption of the Eisenhower Doctrine was endorsed by an overwhelming majority in last June's elections, said, "our social and economic system brings us together with the West."

London Paper Plans to Raffle Off a 'Woman'

LONDON (UP — The tabloid Daily Sketch, which Monday offered a man as a prize in a circulation contest, hinted today that it might raffle off a woman, too.

"A woman?" the newspaper's official spokesman replied to questioners. "Ah-hah. I'm afraid I can't divulge any plans the paper may have."

He conceded, however, that a woman might have even more drawing power than the upper-class gentleman offered by the Sketch Monday.

Asked whether people might misunderstand the offer of a woman, the spokesman replied:

"Ah, yes. That might be a problem."

How would the paper go about finding the woman, he was asked.

"We found a gentleman, didn't we?"

Cool Weather Is Expected to Stay

By UNITED PRESS

Cool, dry air from the northwest brought springlike temperatures throughout Pennsylvania today and the weatherman said the mercury was expected to remain below normal through Wednesday.

The pleasant weather followed behind a cool front which pushed across the state Monday, pulling in Canadian air. The high pressure area controlling weather conditions across Pennsylvania today is located over the Great Lakes area and is causing the flow of drier air.

Sample temperatures around the state at 6 a.m. today were: Philadelphia 59, Harrisburg 54, Allentown 52, Pittsburgh 51, Altoona 49, Scranton 47 and Philipsburg 35.

Canadian Steel Mills Operating at Capacity

By HARRY L. MARDON

TORONTO (UP)—In marked contrast to the U.S. steel industry Canada's steel mills are operating at near full-throttle.

Whereas America's steel plants have been operated at only about 80 per cent of capacity, reflecting declining demand, most steel furnaces in this country have been spewing forth finished products at a rate well above 90 per cent.

The industry has been riding the crest of a sensational economic boom in the past few years, financed chiefly out of earnings and Canadian investors.

Output soared to about five million tons last year from only about 3,300,000 tons in 1952. The industry plans to spend an estimated two billion dollars in the next 25 years to boost productive capacity to 14 million tons.

Industry officials here predict that 1957 output will "at least match, probably top," the 1956 figure.

They were a bit gloomier, however, about the profit picture. Costs for the industry have climbed steadily, and have been only partially offset by recent conservative price increases.

Canada now ranks as the world's ninth biggest steel producer, and ranks eighth as a steel consumer. In iron ore production it stands fifth behind the United States, Russia, France and Sweden, respectively.

Last year's output of 11 million tons of iron ore was only a small nibble at the vast Canadian reserves.

Because U.S. risk investment capital has been the major factor in the discovery and development of these iron ore resources, the mining companies are mostly U.S. dominated. Hence much of the output was shipped to hungry furnaces in the U.S.

But at present Canada is not self-sufficient in steel. Imports now account for about 25 per cent of domestic consumption. These imports come mostly from the U.S., but in the past few years Britain has boosted her shipments of steel products, while Germany has begun to play an increasingly important role in the Canadian steel picture.

To protect the country's robust steel industry there appears a distinct possibility that the Canadian tariff board will soon recommend stiffer import levies against many steel product lines.

Despite the dynamic nature of Canada's steel industry most officials are agreed it would be unrealistic to expect the industry to crash into the world steel market. They point out that other nations have more experience in the export market and are better situated astride world trade routes.

Alpine Search Halted; Await 'Decent Weather'

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (UP) — Alpine experts will await "halfway decent weather" before attempting to recover the body of Stefano Longhi from the sheer north face of Mt. Eiger, it was announced today.

Longhi is one of four climbers who were stranded on the mountain by sudden snow last week. His body, dangling head down in a tangle of climbing ropes, is about 1,200 feet below the mountain's peak.

Authorities here said they are unwilling to risk the life of another climber by attempting to recover Longhi's body before the weather improves.

Two German climbers who were caught on the peak have vanished. A veteran glacier pilot has been assigned to fly over the crevasses, grooves and gullies crisscrossing the mountainside for traces of their bodies.

Claudio Corti, the only one of the four men who survived the ordeal, was reported "resting comfortably' in a hospital today. He is expected to recover.

Wants to Keep His Pet Lion

TRENTON, N.J. (UP) — Magistrate Samuel Levinthal allowed Monday night that while Ewing Township ordinances permit "some animals" there was just complaint against a pet kept by Ralph Resteuccio.

The pet is a 400-pound African lion which Resteuccio keeps in a concrete building near his home.

At an informal hearing attended by nervous township officials and Resteuccio, Levinthal said the lion "by no wild stretch of the imagination" could be considered as covered by the zoning ordinance which permits "pets."

Resteuccio, 32, a former gorilla keeper for a circus, said he had bought the lion more than two years ago when it was a 4-month-old cub.

"I've had that lion for two-and-one-half years and now, suddenly all this is happening."

He submitted statements from eight neighbors which read: "To whom it may concern: The lion on Somerset and Gould avenues is no nuisance to us nor does it bother us in any way."

The town fathers, however, began drafting a formal complaint to force Resteuccio to get rid of his pet on grounds of "odor, health, sanitation and violation of the zoning ordinance."

Resteuccio's reason for keeping such an unusual pet in a residential area:

"I like animals. Big ones especially."

Harris, Atwood Agree to Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP)—Millionaire ice show producer John J. Harris and his wife, former Ice Capades star Donna Atwood, yesterday reached an "amicable" settlement of their 5-million dollar fortune.

The settlement left the way clear for an uncontested divorce between the 57-year-old Harris and his wife, who is 25 years his junior. Details were not made public.

Harris, head of Harris Enterprises, Inc., of Pittsburgh, had objected to divorce proceedings here previously on grounds both he and his wife were residents of Pennsylvania. However, when a reconciliation failed he conceded to the settlement.

An attorney in the case said both principals "were thinking of their three children" and were well satisfied with settlement terms.

Senate Approves Niagara Project

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Monday night passed the 600 million dollar Niagara power project bill to meet the growing electrical needs of upstate New York and adjacent areas.

The bill—passed by voice vote—now goes to President Eisenhower for his signature. The House passed the measure earlier.

City Student to Attend Congress

Thomas Hollander, of 24 Columbus Dr., Monessen, will be among the delegates attending the National Student Congress at Ann Arbor, Mich., next Tuesday. Hollander attends Penn State University.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Harold Stassen, a presidential aide, will receive special awards at the 10th annual congress.

One thousand representatives from American colleges in every part of the country will participate in free discussions of such issues as relationships with Eastern European students, federal aid to undergraduates, college athletic policies and freedom in education.

Democrats Out to Take State Registration Edge from GOP

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Democratic party leaders say they are within striking distance of wresting Pennsylvania from the Republicans and taking the lead in registered voters for the first time in modern political history.

The latest official registration figures show the GOP holding a 380,000 voter lead, a slim margin compared to the days when the Republicans filled offices from the Executive Mansion downward. The Republicans have 2,780,000 registered voters to 2,400,000 for the Democrats. About 61,000 voters are registered outside the two major parties. Three years ago the GOP held a one million voter advantage.

The speed with which the Democrats have overtaken the GOP during recent years comes as no surprise to Commonwealth Secretary James A. Finnegan, the party's registration chairman this year. Finnegan is credited with leading the Democrats to power in Philadelphia with the election of their first non-Republican mayor in half a century.

Backed up with figures, slide-rules and a grass roots party movement, Finnegan said recently he planned to register 175,000 Democrats before registrations close Sept. 17. Finnegan admits that he has set a sizeable task for an off-year election, but asserts the job can be done with proper cooperation from the county chairmen.

Leader for Senator

November next year, when the state elects a governor, Lieutenant governor and a U.S. Senator, is when Finnegan said the Democrats hoped to take the lead in voter registrations. The success of the voter campaign could reflect the Democrats efforts to retain the governorship and Gov. George M. Leader's expected bid for the Senate.

Finnegan, an astute politician schooled in the trench warfare of south Philadelphia politics to the national limelight of a presidential campaign, has mapped out a series of statewide meetings to drum up grass roots support. Today, party leaders huddled at Wilkes-Barre to spur registrations, hold political "workshops" aimed at victories in the November municipal and county elections. Other meetings are scheduled Thursday at Harrisburg and Reading.

Unofficial figures from Philadelphia indicate the Democrats have overtaken the GOP registration by about 1,000 in the state's largest city. In Philadelphia alone, the Republicans have lost 240,000 voters while the Democrats were gaining 215,000, all since 1948.

Dent Mentioned

Although the Democratic primary will not be held until spring, candidates and supporters of potential candidates are dropping names around Capitol Hill. Mentioned thus far as possible candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor and Lt. Gov. are Roy E. Furman, Pittsburgh; Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth; Judge Warren Hess, Reading; former Property and Supplies Secretary John S. Rice, Gettysburg; Senate Democratic leader John H. Dent, Jeannette; former Philadelphia councilman Lewis M. Stevens; Allegheny County Controller James W. Knox and county coroner Dr. William McClelland.

One ranking Democratic leader said the governorship nominee race would be "wide open" but added Gov. Leader had the Senate bid "in the bag" if he wants it. "I don't know of anyone foolish enough to oppose him," he said.

Monessen Priest To Preach Sermon

Rev. Augustine Stevko, assigned to Holy Name R. C. Church in Monessen, will deliver the Slovak sermon in opening services of the eighth annual pilgrimage to the Shrine of Our Lady of Fatima in Toronto, O.

The pilgrimage will be held on Thursday, the feast of the Assumption, which is a holy day for Catholics. Father Stevko's sermon will begin at 7:30 p. m., immediately after the praying of the Rosary.

The services are held on the grounds of St. Joseph R. C. Church.

Monopoly Trends In Steel Industry

THE SENATE committee which is investigating the pricing policies and other economic aspects of the steel industry will not be doing its full duty if it does not inquire into the reasons why the steel companies do so many things exactly alike.

So far, the testimony of the witnesses and the questioning of the senators has just begun to scrape the surface of this phase of the subject. And the officials of U. S. Steel have seemed to prefer to treat it rather gingerly, which may be understandable.

To a question, for instance, as to why all the steel companies happened to raise their prices recently by just $6 a ton immediately after U. S. Steel had raised its prices by $6 a ton, Roger Blough, the U. S. Steel chairman, suggested that the question should be put to the officials of some of the other companies.

And he is quite right — it should be.

Mr. Blough added, however, that one reason for this identity of action with respect to prices could be the fact that the companies all pay practically the same wage rates and that their labor costs, therefore, have been going up at approximately the same rate.

Right again — they have.

* * *

AND NOW we are getting to one of the real issues, which is the practice of industry-wide bargaining of labor contracts.

Mr. Blough did not say it in so many words, but the import of his answers to these questions is that he recognizes that industry-wide bargaining and industry-wide strikes are essentially monopolistic in their effects.

To be sure, he says steel has competition. But he did not pretend that there is very much real competition inside the steel industry. Steel's competition, he was careful to emphasize, comes from plastics, aluminum, glass and other materials which are being sold as substitutes for steel.

Oh sure, the steel companies sell against each other. And in periods of over-supply, which have been rare in most recent years, there is an appearance of competition.

But the facts remain that one company sets the patterns with respect to prices and one or a few companies set the patterns with respect to wages and other labor costs. And the steel company which does not conform to these patterns in all important respects is more than likely to find itself going out of business by one route or another.

This general condition, it seems to us, is one with which the Congress has a duty to concern itself. It may be that this condition serves the national interest in more respects than it disserves it. It may be that nothing much can be done about it, legislatively or economically, without imposing unwise governmental control. It is possible that the evolution of our economy makes this condition both inevitable and desirable.

But the nation's lawmakers should examine these developments objectively and at least make sure they point in a direction in which the nation wants to move. If, as it seems clear, we are drifting towards a condition of monopoly in the steel industry, we should do so only with our eyes wide open.

Fresh Thinking

REPORTS from Harrisburg are telling of some supposedly "revolutionary" thinking going on in legislative circles about the financing of the public schools of Pennsylvania.

These reports center around a proposal by Sen. Albert R. Pechan, of Ford City, Republican whip of the Senate, and Westmoreland County's Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic minority leader.

The Pechan-Dent plan would base state subsidies to school districts on the total child population of the district, counting parochial students as well as those actually enrolled in the public schools. At the present time, state subsidies are figured on the basis of children actually enrolled in the public schools of the districts.

The objective of the plan, according to the news accounts, is to distribute more widely — and therefore possibly more fairly — the growing financial burden of education. And its major effect would be to increase taxes for school purposes at the state level and reduce them, in most districts, at the local level.

The Pechan-Dent plan is so sweeping in character that it will need exhaustive study, which it promises to get soon from the Joint State Government Commission. And this study will have to include the question as to whether more state control of education and less local control is desirable.

But what heartens us about the matter at this stage is the evidence of a willingness in Harrisburg to think more boldly about the problem of financing education. For it seems highly probable that we cannot solve this problem properly without some new, perhaps even some radical, ideas.

Westmoreland Countians can be appreciative of the fact, too, that Senator Dent is among those legislative leaders who are willing to explore new paths.

Behind the Affair of Mr. Gluck

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles and the Ceylonese Ambassador to the United States have all gracefully come to the aid of Mr. Maxwell Gluck, who flunked his Senate committee quiz on foreign affairs but was nevertheless confirmed as the new American Ambassador to Ceylon.

Mr. Drummond

You will recall that when the secret testimony taken by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the appointment was disclosed, it developed that Mr. Gluck was notably free of knowledge of the country to which he was assigned; and when asked to name the Prime Minister of Ceylon's great and influential neighbor, India, he replied that he knew but couldn't pronounce the name. (It is Nehru, pronounced Nehru.)

Ambassador Gluck appears to have fared better at the hands of the Ceylonese than at the hands of the senators, at least his senatorial quiz-masters. Ambassador R. S. Gunawardene said that he and his colleagues like him fine. It would not be fantastic to wonder if they might not be welcoming him especially because Mr. Gluck will take to his diplomatic post such an open mind — one could say precisely and not uncomplimentarily, a mind so empty of foreign affairs — which the Ceylonese will be willing to fill.

Lack of Interest

President Eisenhower said that he never even knew that Mr. Gluck was a $30,000 contributor to the 1956 Republican presidential campaign and that he would not have given it the slightest consideration. That is undoubtedly true, but it is also undoubtedly true that those who recommended him to the President knew it very well.

Secretary Dulles said he might well not know the name of a particular foreign minister or might make some other such blooper before a congressional committee if he weren't thoroughly briefed before each appearance and that Mr. Gluck hadn't had time to be briefed. True, but what astonished the critical senators about Mr. Gluck was not his lack of specific facts but lack of evidence of any developed interest in foreign affairs.

The truth of the matter is, I think, that the appointment to an important diplomatic post of a bright, wealthy businessman without manifest qualifications is no rarity in U. S. diplomacy.

Ike Has Good Record

Actually the Eisenhower administration has a notably good record of appointing career professionals to major diplomatic posts. The percentage of its political or non-professional appointments is relatively low compared with other administrations. Many of its political appointments have been outstandingly good, such as Ambassador Bunker to India and Ambassador Bruce to Germany — both Democrats — and Ambassador Whitney to London and Ambassador Zellerbach to Rome.

The root trouble is not the Gluck appointment per se. This may turn out to be accidentally a very good appointment. The root trouble is the low level of salary and allowances for our ambassadors which makes it necessary, when going outside the Foreign Service professionals, to limit the choice to people of large means.

This limitation stems directly from Congress, not from the White House or State Department which have often beseeched Congress to rectify it.

Interest Necessary

I certainly agree with those who say that when the President does go outside the ranks of the Foreign Service — and this is sometimes quite desirable — he ought to pick men or women who have demonstrated a genuine interest in public affairs. Business in itself is not an adequate training ground for diplomacy in the cold war era.

Finally, it seems to me that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is performing a public disservice by conducting secret hearings on diplomatic appointments or any other appointments. They ought to be in the open. Whose business is this, anyway? It's the public business. It's no good having the facts come out when it is too late.

Merry-Go-Round—

Navy Secretary Stirs Protests

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Tall, gangling Navy secretary Thomas S. Gates was welcoming congressmen aboard the Navy yacht "Sequoia" for a cruise down the Potomac the other evening. Gates, who stands well over six feet, had to stoop as he strolled along the glassed - in after deck.

Mr. Pearson

"Mr. Secretary, can't you jack up those things a bit?" commented Rep. George Miller (D., Calif.) referring to the beams supporting the glass canopy.

"No, sir," replied Secretary Gates. "Congress won't give us any money to raise the roof."

"Why don't you get Harry Sheppard to come out here?" suggested Rep. Miller, noting that Sheppard is third-ranking Democrat on the House Appropriations Committee. Like Miller, Rep. Sheppard hails from California. "Maybe you can get Harry to put a hydraulic jack in the appropriation bill to raise those beams a little."

"No, sir," repeated Gates, a onetime Morgan banker, "he's a tough one to get any money from."

"Well, I guess you're right," agreed Miller. "Harry is so short he couldn't appreciate this predicament. Why, he'd have to stand on a chair to reach those rafters."

Note — In addition to Miller, five other members of the House Armed Services Committee sailed with Secretary Gates aboard the Sequoia: Overton Brooks (D., La.), Melvin Price (D., Ill.), Richard Lankford (D., Md.), James Devereux (R., Md.), and William Bray (R., Ill.).

Angry Citizens

Next day Secretary Gates flew to San Diego, held a press conference at the Admiral Kidd Club, then virtually ignored a delegation of Californians who had driven about 100 miles to urge him not to close the Corona Naval Hospital. It had been agreed in advance that Gates would give them 30 minutes. Instead he shook hands, posed for a photo, then, without saying a word, boarded the admiral's barge to cross the bay.

"How such a rude, arrogant individual could be appointed Secretary of the Navy is one of the biggest mysteries of national party politics," exploded Mayor Francis B. Stearns of Corona, a Republican.

"They'll have trouble ever regaining their leadership in our traditionally - Republican county," continued the mayor. "Dozens of people traveled from Riverside, San Bernardino, and Imperial counties to talk to this man and he condescends to meet us, then brusquely brushes us off midst a swarm of rear admirals. He didn't even say goodbye.

Fortunately the people of this country have a way of remembering occasions like this when they go to the polls."

Budget Cutting Hurts

The incident illustrates what the administration is up against, not merely in southern California but all over the nation, as a result of its present economy drive.

Inside fact is that Congress didn't touch a penny of the appropriation for the Navy's Bureau of Medicine. Congressman Harry Sheppard, jokingly referred to by Secretary Gates as "the great economizer," refused to make any cuts.

"The Navy's medical problems are too intricate for us," he told colleagues. "We'll take the word of the navy doctors."

After getting all the money it asked for, however, the Navy's Bureau of Medicine now has orders to cut below the budget requested of Congress — hence the ordered closing of the Corona Hospital.

This has brought a storm of protest from local citizens, plus repeated protests from California congressmen. Back in California, congressmen have stated that the matter was taken up at the White House, which to the average person means with the President himself. They don't know that the President doesn't pay any attention to the hospitals in southern California.

What happened was that Congressman Gordon McDonough (R., Calif.) was appointed by other California congressmen to take up the matter and he telephoned to ex-Congressman Jack Anderson, a White House liaison officer. He did not go to the White House. He phoned Anderson.

Busy-bee Anderson, in turn, talked to the Navy. If he took the matter of a hospital up with Eisenhower he would be in danger of getting fired. Ike never handles these things.

Republicans in Congress Not Supporting Ike

By RAMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — It was three months ago that President Eisenhower muted the uproar over his record peacetime budget by two national radio-TV speeches.

Mr. Lahr

It was two months ago that he told a Republican conference that GOP leaders in Congress and the party organization have a special responsibility to support legislation to carry out the party platform. He made clear his belief that his budget and other parts of his legislative program were based on the 1956 platform.

The administration recently has suffered a series of defeats in Congress. The lingering budget furor and occasional lapses of support from GOP leaders figured in some of these.

Neither factor was involved, however, in the administration defeats suffered when the Senate amended the civil rights bill. The Republicans were simply outplayed in a contest for votes.

Makes Personal Plea

The budget, coupled with a congressional feeling that there is public disenchantment with the foreign aid program, has figured in the progressive shrinkage of the foreign aid bill.

Despite a personal plea from Eisenhower the House voted last month to cut the foreign aid bill about half a billion dollars below his request. Although a conference committee representing the House and Senate has restored part of that money, further cuts are in prospect when Congress acts later on the follow-up appropriation bill.

Even before the House killed the bill to provide federal aid for school construction, Vice President Richard M. Nixon described the measure as a casualty of the battle of the budget. It also lacked support from some GOP leaders in Congress.

The bill before the House was not the administration's own but Eisenhower was willing to accept it. When the roll was called on the motion to kill it a shift of three votes would have kept it alive. Three of the House Republican leadership group voted for the decapitation.

Knowland Against Bill

On the other side of the Capitol, Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland had already declared himself against the bill. He listed the budget situation as one of his reasons.

Analyzing their defeats on the civil rights bill, administration supporters could offer no explanation except that they lacked the votes. On the two key votes 18 Republicans deserted the administration on the first and 12 on the second, the amendment attaching a jury trial proviso.

Eisenhower was reported to have offered to do anything he could to defeat the jury trial amendment and to have made telephone calls to a few waverers. His Senate supporters were already convinced, however, that the GOP senators they feared would go off the reservation were not susceptible to appeals from the President.

The Lighter Side—

Great Fighting Unit, 24th Div., to 'Retire'

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) — An old friend is dying in Korea. This friend is not a person—although to some it seemed, through two wars, to have an individuality of its own and to act on its own like a thing alive. It is just a name. Matter of fact, just a number.

But it helped shape American history from the day the bombs fell at Pearl Harbor to the end of the fighting in Korea.

The 24th Infantry Division is heading for a rendezvous with oblivion. The body of men and equipment serving under that name in Korea will be redesignated as the 1st Cavalry Division, and army personnel of the 1st Cavalry in Japan will be removed from that country and reassigned elsewhere.

Shoved On Shelf

chance to present his case to the

Then the name "24th Division" will be quietly shoved onto the shelf. The U.S. Army will remove the name from its active list.

When the little enemy planes came in from the sea at first light of Dec. 7, 1941, the 24th was near Pearl Harbor and suffered minor casualties.

The rain was torrential on the marshes when the 24th seized the Hollandia airdrome in New Guinea and the jungle was crawling with biting, stinging bugs. The rainy season was on, too, for the landing at Red Beach on Leyte, and the 24th drove up Leyte Valley and took Breakneck Ridge in agonizing fighting.

Elements of the 24th fought all over the Philippines, and in February, 1945, one of its battalions landed against heavy opposition on the rock of Corregidor and helped paratroops deliver that tiny fortress isle once more into American hands.

The division fought across tropical Mindanao in the Philippines, stormed Davao, cleared Libby airdrome in May, and continued patrol action even after Japan's surrender officially ended the war.

First In Korea

Remember the start of the Korean War, and the early, desperate days when American ground troops were first sent there? That was the 24th U.S. Division. Outnumbered by the Communist attackers, the 24th attempted to withdraw at Taejon, broke into scattered elements, and its commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, was captured.

Then came the holding action, then the long drive north, and when the Chinese Communists entered the Korean War late in 1950, the 24th Division was within seven miles of the Yalu River.

In multiple advances and retreats the road signs bearing the code name of the division were familiar sights up and down the shattered length of Korea. In all, the division attacked north across the 38th Parallel three separate times.

Just a name...a number...under which many thousands of young men have served, sweated, ached, bled, died. It was a restless, moving, fighting name. It earned retirement. Let it rest.

Vaccine for VIPs

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

The new vaccine to ward off the expected epidemic of Asiatic flu will become available to the general public in small, then increasing amounts within a matter of days.

It has been available, however, for some weeks to selected and key figures of the Eisenhower Administration.

Vaccine shots for cabinet members were available last week.

If the President himself has received the vaccine it is not known. At least one of his cabinet members has turned it down because of an allergic record.

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—Where the President still intends to go on vacation in a couple of weeks or so, was one of the first spots in the United States where the Asiatic flu showed up. This could mean that he might get a protective shot before he leaves.

One of the most decorative and luxurious estates near the naval base where the President will stay in Newport is owned by W. Alton Jones, head of Cities Service, one of the nation's larger gas and oil companies. Jones is a buddy of the President. If Eisenhower goes to Newport he can be expected to drop in on his friend.

Bob Hope comes to Washington this week for a show at the Carter Barron outdoor theater in Rock Creek Park. The chances are that while the comedian is in the city he will play golf with the chief executive.

Another comedian, Jerry Lewis, was in Washington recently and someone spread the word that the President and Lewis might match tee shots. It never came off, however. The explanation might be that Hope and the President know each other. Hope has played with Eisenhower before.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Ozarks' 'No Show' Looked Bad

We hated to hear that the Ozarks didn't show for their final game at Fayette City. It made the locals, who had played terrific ball the final few days of the season in a thrilling finish, look very bad. It's hard for this corner to defend the action of the Ozarks because there isn't much to be said in their defense. Even if the locals had no choice whatsoever at the pennant or playoffs most valley fans insist they should have shown at Fayette City. West Newton showed for its last game and the Newton's had a 0-39 chart going into the finale . . . What burned league officials was the fact that a large crowd had gathered for the contest at the Legionaires' field.

They are still talking up Belle Vernon way today about the "big game" Sunday between the North Belle Vernon and Belle Vernon Firemen softball teams which the Hill team won, 5-3, on a four-hitter by Bill Sullenberger. Hitting stars were Sam Fiorino with three safeties, including a double, Jack Stark with a triple and a homer by Jimmy Koslosky. But it was the "after-game" festivities that drew the most comment. The teams retired to the North Belle Vernon fire hall after the clash where the "party" was on the losers. Manager Churck Galligan of the Belle Vernon group was thrown in the showers followed by Jimmy Koslosky, manager of the winners, and his aide, Bill Vizza. Later a water battle developed which was also won by the "Hillers" with a large crowd of nearby residents in on the "dousing." So, the "Wildcats" now reign as softball champs over the "River Rats," as the downtown fire-fighters proudly dub themselves.

Three Managers for Bucs in '57?

We know a man who knows a man who knows a man who said, "Don't be surprised if the Pirates have three managers before the 1957 season is over." He added, "Danny Murtaugh doesn't have it." Now that was before the twin-bill victory by the Bucs Sunday so things may have changed . . . Glad to see Gene Freese spark the Pirates in that double victory as we've always been a Freese booster and didn't think he saw enough action. He has desire which, in this book, rates him higher than many players with more ability, no fight . . . In case you missed it in the tennis story here yesterday, James Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Baker, of 610 Third St., was one of the ball boys for the Wightman Cup games over the weekend. He's a member of the Junior Davis Cup squad.

Vandergrift High has lost a third football coach within five months. Former Monongahela High mentor Ben K. Haldy started it all in April when he resigned the head coaching post. He was followed by Larry Verone, who quit his assistant coaching post over a month ago and now Jim Bartlebaugh, formerly Haldy's line mentor, has resigned, presumably because he was demoted to junior high mentor. He is the cage coach there at a salary of $1,000 and received $500 for the assistant football job . . . The Pittsburgh Steelers are now singing the praises of Dick Hughes, who goes 170 pounds and stands only 5-8. He is described as the fastest thing in the league. Brother Ed Hughes plays for the Giants.

Mounties Count on District Youths

Six district youths figure highly in West Virginia U's grid plans for this coming season. They include Larry Krutko, who played for Al Cree at Carmichaels, who'll probably be the Mounties' starting fullback; Paul Sharkady, tackle, Vestaburg; Dick Guesman, tackle, Brownsville; Tom Domen, center, Fredericktown; Bill Ford, guard, Richeyville and Jim Hillen, tackle, Uniontown . . . Beanie Gordon, one of the all-time top Washington High athletes, will be honored at a testimonial banquet on Monday, August 26 in Washington. Guests will include Dick Groat and Gene Baker of the Bucs, Dom Roselli, Youngstown College mentor and Gordon's high school tutor Bill Laughlin. Gordon will enroll at Youngstown this fall. He won all-state honors last year.

Open Tennis Tourney Proposed by Veteran

By VINCENT RICHARDS
Former Tennis Star

NEW YORK (UP)—Why don't they have an open tennis tournament?

One hears this question on all sides of the court from Forest Hills to Wimbledon.

I was thinking about this recently as I sat in a box at Forest Hills watching the Tournament of Champions, put on by Jack Kramer as a promoter.

We saw in this tournament such players as Pancho Gonzales, Pancho Segura, Ken Rosewall, Frank Sedgman, Dinny Pails, Jack Kramer, and Lew Hoad — the new bonus baby of professional tennis.

We witnessed an astounding sight. Hoad, acknowledged the No. 1 amateur champion of the world, was able to win but two single matches against these professionals during the 10 days of the tournament.

Won Amateur Crown

This happened only six days after Lew won the so-called world's amateur championship at Wimbledon, where he had beaten Ashley Cooper in the final round in straight sets.

Hoad's performance at Forest Hills, and subsequently in the professional tournament held last week at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, where he failed to win a singles match, indicates clearly how low the standard of play has become in amateur tennis around the world.

There is only one answer to the whole subject, in my opinion, and that is an open tennis tournament.

During the past 40 years, it has been my good fortune to be connected intimately with both golf and tennis in this country. There is no good reason in my mind why tennis could not be put on the same basis as golf in the United States.

Golf, I might add, is the best run sport in this country.

In the golf game, we have the amateur and the professional playing side by side the year 'round and doing it by their own choice This in itself eliminates all sham amateurism now connected with the game of tennis.

Group Suspends Star

I read with amusement the other day a headline in the papers stating:

"The United States Lawn Tennis Association suspends Stewart indefinitely."

It seems Hugh Stewart, of Pasadena, Calif., the United States' 11th ranking player, has been over in Europe doing nothing but playing in tennis tournaments. This, of course, violates the rules of the tennis association, so Harold LeBair, chairman of the international committee, suspended him. I quote Mr. LeBair.

"Stewart has been violating our policies for the past two years or so but most of the time he has made excuses so we let him off. This time he has gone too far in regard to our instructions."

What a farce and what a laugh this whole situation is to anyone connected with the game.

Hallers MPSA Win In CSL

A neat pitching stint plus some terrific hitting, both feats by Ral Sekoski, gave Italian Hall a 5-2 victory over PNA last night to keep the Hallers in contention for a playoff berth.

In the second game of the twin bill MPSA took the measure of ULBA, 12-7.

The first game saw Sekoski match a six-hitter by Adamczyk but contributed mainly to his own cause with a grand slam homer in the second when Italian Hall scored five runs.

PNA tallied twice in the third inning on a single by Wine Teska, another one-bagger by Shorty Skowronski and a sacrifice fly. In addition to Sekoski's grand slammer in the fifth, Don Danser contributed a single as did Paul Pacak and Gene Quinn. Teska and Skowronski with two hits apiece, both singles, paced the losers.

MPSA won mainly on errors as the losers contributed four. Six runs in the third and four in the fifth broke the game open for the winners. Dale Simpson with three hits, Rich James and Ed Lea with two hits each and Harrison Spencer with a homer led the winners while Joe Karbowsky and Ron Lipnicky had two hits each for the losers with Mike Kerestes smashing the big blow, a round-tripper.

Tonight's twin bill shows MPSA meeting Italian Hall and the Ravens going against the Cro-Ams in the wind-up. The first tilt starts at 5:30 o'clock, the second immediately upon completion of the first contest.

Monessen Drops TCSL Playoff Opener by 3-2

Big Mike Smith stepped to the plate in the last of the ninth and promptly sent the ball sailing out of the park as the Monongahela softball entry in the Tri-County League took a 3-2 decision over Monessen CIO in the playoff opener last night at Monongahela.

The two rivals meet in the second of their best-of-three series at Ninth Street Park tomorrow night at 5:30 o'clock.

Tonight Pricedale is at Roscoe in the opener of their playoff set, the two eventual winners to meet in a best-of-five series for the 1957 championship

Again last night it was a case of no-hitting support for Monessen's Tom Standard, who allowed only six hits and in a duel with Art Doty of Monongahela, who gave up just four safe blows, fanning eight. Babe Weightman was the slugging ace for the locals just as he has been all season, clubbing a homer and a single. He and Ray Pietroboni of the winners were the only batters on either team to garner more than one safety.

Monongahela took a 1-1 lead in the second, jumped it to 2-0 in the sixth but the Jim Cramer-coached CIOers came back to deadlock it in the eighth only to have Smith's blow take home the marbles in the final frame.

Steelers' No. 2 Draftee Reports

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers welcomed their No. 7 draft choice to camp Monday as Coach Walter Kiesling primed his charges for their first exhibition against the Chicago Bears Saturday night.

Curley Johnson, 205-pound back from Houston, Tex., reported to the Steelers from the Edmonton Eskimos. Johnson quit the Eskimos last week because "I just didn't fit in with their style of play."

Johnson, according to Steeler scouting reports, is a hard, dangerous runner and a good kicker.

The Steelers play the Bears in Jacksonville, Fla., in the Gator Bowl. Coach Kiesling has had his defense squad working over possible plays to stop the big bad Bears.

Manzini to Issue Equipment Friday

Bellmar High grid coach, Bap Manzini announced this morning that gridiron hopefuls for the 1957 Hurricane squad could obtain their football togs at Marion Junior High School Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Manzini and his aides will issue the equipment at that time.

Physicals will be given by Dr. Vince Bolton, of Monessen, at a date to be announced.

Doubles Finals in Tennis Go

Jim Baker and Buzzy Silko took the measure of the Howski-Yezerinac entry in the City Tennis Tourney doubles simi-finals competition last night 8-2, 2-6, 6-0 while the Thompson-Szypanski duo defeated the Musial-Kurey combine, 6-4, 8-6. Both were semi-final matches.

Tonight the two winning teams will battle for the men's doubles Division title on the City Park courts at 6 o'clock.

The tourney is cosponsored by the Department of Recreation and Post 28 of the American Legion.

Baker has won the singles title in the men's division.

The Legion Post will present awards to the winners in all eight classifications of the tourney.

Lucille Musial is in charge of the tourney for the Department of Recreation assisted by other supervisors and a special committee from Post 28

Dick Savitt Easy Winner Over Top Yank Net Players

Tall and husky Dick Savitt, who trounced America's two top tennis players in marching to the Eastern Grass Courts championship, told the U.S. Davis Cup Committee today not to get its hopes up.

The 30-year-old Savitt defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in the championship match Monday, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 8-6, after having whipped the U.S.' No. 1 ranking player, Ham Richardson, in the semi-finals.

"I'm not interested in Davis Cup play," said Savitt after the final match. "As a matter of fact, I may not even play in the nationals at Forest Hills. It will depend on whether my business permits it."

Savitt's game was not quite at its peak against Seixas, and he had trouble with his service, but his ground strokes and volleys at the net were too strong for 33-year-old Seixas, who has yet to win the Eastern championship in 10 years of trying, although he has taken the Wimbledon and Forest Hills titles

Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif., won the women's singles with a 6-2, 6-2 conquest of Jeanne Arth of St. Paul, Minn., and Barbara Davidson of Milwaukee and Mrs. Pat Todd of La Jolla, Calif., won the women's doubles over Janet Hopps of Seattle and Diana Wooton of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-1.

The men's doubles went to the Australian team of Roy Emerson and Bob Mark, with a 4-6, 8-6, 9-7, 4-6, 6-3 triumph over the English Davis Cup team of Mike Davis and Bob Wilson.

Championship Race At Washington

A 50-lap season championship race of the Pittsburgh Racing Association is set for tonight at Arden Downs. Bob Lucci won the first race, held last week at Claridge.

Herb Scott and Dick Linder, the PRA point leaders, are co-favorites.

Top ten drivers and their total points are as follows:

Herb Scott, 1547; Dick Linder, 1422; Lee Stover, 1035; Ed Fiola, 867; Glade Neil, 811; Dick Bailey, 792; Bill Webster, 786; Joe Mihalic, 784; Buddy O'Connor, 756; Jack Steffen, 689.

MVL Playoffs to Continue Tonight At New Eagle

Perryopolis joined New Eagle in the driver's seat of the Mon Valley League playoffs with a 6-3 decision over Charleroi at Charleroi last night.

Steve Hancharik five-hitted the Merchants as Jim Caporella, Tom Havadich and Bernie Farkas paced an eight-hit attack on Charleroi ace Fred Uhlman.

Charleroi, which placed second in the regular season, will try to even up the series Wednesday afternoon in the second tilt at Perryopolis.

Perry took a 3-0 lead after four innings. Bernie Farkus singled with two on to drive in two runs after a sacrifice had advanced runners to second and third bases.

The Merchants trimmed the lead to 3-2, but Perry came back with three more tallies in the top of the seventh.

Farkus singled again to open the frame. Hancharik walked, Joe Vargo pinch hit a double to score Farkus. Then, with second and third again filled, James Caporella smacked a single for the final two runs.

Charleroi scored one lone tally in their half of the final inning, but fell short of overcoming the lead.

Today, Fayette City (.0-1) goes to New Eagle, (1-0), which finished in fourth. Fayette City was flag winner in the loop.

Donora Ahead, Nears PONY Series Berth

Donora's PONY League All-Star team stands just one game away from a World Series berth by defeating New Kensington, 2-0 at New Kensington last night to cop the first of the best-of-three series for the West Penn title.

Donora's Chuck Giuffrida racket up an amazing 20 strikeouts with his mound foe, Jim Zwergal, fanning 17. Only fair ball hit off Giuffrida was a fly to center field as two outfielders and the entire infield spent most of the night as spectators.

Zwergal was working on a perfect game for 5 1-3 innings but Donora forged ahead in the sixth when with one out, Tony Greco walked and was replaced by pinch-runner Steve Turkovich.

Turkovich stole second, went to third on an error and scored on Jack Mason's single. Dave Kostolansky scored Mason with a two-bagger to insure the victory.

New Kensington rallied in the last of the seventh when Zwergal singled and Cheatum walked but the next two batters whiffed to end the game.

The second game of the series will be played tonight at 5.45 p. m. at Palmer Park, Donora, with the third game, if necessary, to be played here Wednesday night.

If the Donora squad, managed by Bob Pastor and John "Yush" Watroba, wins tomorrow, it will be the fourth Washington County team to reach the PONY World Series since it was inaugurated in 1952.

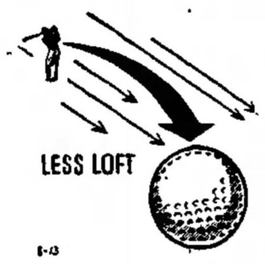
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Wind Trouble

There's no doubt about it: A following wind is a great help in adding distance to a shot. But realize also that a following wind — especially a strong one—will keep the ball from attaining height, thus cutting down on the carry.

If you will notice, a wind of 25 miles an hour will aid the flight of the ball just about as much as a 35-mile wind. The reason for this is that it is harder to get height on the ball in a very strong wind because the wind works against the rise of the ball.

From observation, I'd say that the average player depends too much on help from the wind — especially on short irons. He feels that all he has to do is get the ball up a little and the wind will do the rest. It's not as simple as that. Mr. Average Golfer must take the wind's leveling-out action into account, and strike the ball a sufficiently strong blow with a club to provide the needed assistance.

J. Add Spragg Cops Bi-County Crown at MVCC

J. A. Spragg, of Nemacolin Country Club, won the Washington-Greene County golf tourney at Mon Valley Country Club defeating Ed Betus in the finals, 4 and 3.

Spragg carded 34-36—70 against Betus' 36-38—74 in the opening 18 holes of their 36-hole match, which ended after 3 holes. Spragg had 39-22—61 and Betus 40-24—64 on the final 15.

Spragg previously won the crown in 1955 as a member of the Monongahela club.

Betus defeated Andy Tokar, 1 up in 20 holes, and Spragg won over George Abd, 4 and 3, in semi-final tests.

Mike Underwood copped the consolation event with a 2 and 1 win over John Brazack. Underwood advanced with a 1-up win over Dr. Paul Manon in semi-final matches.

Phillies Hope to Recover Against Pirates Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Philadelphia Phillies open a 15-game home stand tonight, hoping to recoup from a disastrous trip around the loop which saw them drop nine games off the pace.

The Phils open the home stand against the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates, and manager Mayo Smith figures where there's life there's hope for the home club if the hitting picks up.

Smith blamed the Phils' poor showing on the road to weak hitting and he fretted over the outlook for his hard-working pitchers.

"They just can't keep going at their best when they have to worry about making a mistake on every pitch, afraid that just one slip might cost them the game," Smith said.

"You've got to give them a chance to coast now and then, and our hitters just haven't done it very often," he added.

The record supports Smith's observations. The Phils went into first place briefly during their last home stand. Then went on the road and plunged into fifth place.

West-Penn Stars Meet Allegheny's Best Tonight

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The West Penn All-Stars, composed of players from high schools in surrounding counties, meet the Allegheny County All-Stars in the annual Jaycee football game tonight at Forbes Field.

West Penn, which tied the County boys last year but hasn't won the event since 1953, will be favored in tonight's game. Its backfield is expected to make the difference.

The two brightests stars in the West Penn backfield are Jim Cunningham, 208-pound Connellsville fullback, and Dick Hoak, Jeannette quarterback.

The County boys will have a hefty weight advantage in the line.

Parker Quits on Detroit Lions in Surprise Decision

By JACK BERRY

DETROIT (UP)—Buddy Parker said today he definitely quit as head coach of the Detroit Lions and he nominated assistant coach George Wilson to take his place when the Lions open the exhibition season here Wednesday night against the Cleveland Browns.

Parker shocked a crowd of more than 600 persons, including club President Edwin J. Anderson, many of the directors and all of the players, at the annual "Meet the Lions banquet" Monday night by announcing his resignation.

"When you get to the situation where you can't handle your football players it's time to get out and that's what I'm doing tonight," said Parker, one of the most successful coaches in pro ranks.

The effect couldn't have been greater than if an atomic bomb had been dropped. For a moment there was a dead silence then a milling, buzzing crowd.

Anderson hurriedly conferred with General Manager W. Nicholas Kerbawy and then went to the speaker's stand.

"I'm sure Buddy is just emotionally upset over two things that happened today," Anderson said. "With a good night's sleep to think it over and realize what he's said in public, he'll reconsider," he said as fans yelled "don't be a quitter, Buddy!"

But Parker says he has no intention of reconsidering.

Crawley Asked to Pass Up Contest

Carl Crawley, Monessen High School's outstanding gridder of the last three seasons, will not compete in the West Penn-Allegheny County All Star clash tonight at the request of Dayton, U. officials.

Crawley, who will matriculate at Dayton, was informed by officials there that they preferred he did not compete in the Jaycee All-Star clash fearing an injury would sideline the 'Hound ace.

Zulueta Decisions Frankie Ippolito

NEW YORK (UP)—Orlando Zulueta, heartened by his first comeback victory, said today, "Now I'm ready to fight seriously for another shot at the lightweight title."

Cuban Orlando and manager Hymie Wallman were satisfied with the speed and ease of movement he displayed while winning a unanimous decision over unranked Frankie Ippolito of New York in their television 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

It was third-ranked Zulueta's first start since champion Joey Brown stopped him in the 15th round of their title fight at Denver, June 19. He weighed 137 pounds Monday night to Ippolito's 140.

Orlando's next opponent will be Mexican Al Nevarez at Juarez, Mexico, probably Sept. 17. After that he will fight at the Denver Coliseum, Oct. 1, against an opponent to be selected soon.

Patterson-Rademacher Contest To Go Down in Ring History

By RAY ANDREWS

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP) — Pete Rademacher is quite a salesman. He has arranged a prize fight guaranteed to go down in ring history whatever the outcome.

Pete also must be somewhat of a Walter Mitty. He has never been in the professional ring in his life (he has only seen two pro fights), but a week from Thursday he will square off with the heavyweight champion of the world.

Something of the philantropist is in Rademacher, too. For while champ Floyd Patterson is guaranteed $250,000 just to put on the gloves, the chances are good Rademacher won't make a penny — unless he wins and becomes champion.

That is not likely. So perplexed are bookmakers at the spectacle of this 28-year-old amateur taking on the world's best that "any of them won't lay any odds. They cannot recall a precedent unless it be the fourth of July 34 years ago when Jack Dempsey almost made a ghost town of Shelby, Mont.

Will Survive Fight

Seattle will probably survive the fight Aug. 22, but a group of Columbus, Ga., businessmen almost certainly will drop a quarter million dollars. How they were persuaded to put it up is a story in itself.

Rademacher is not a pro but he did win the Olympic title at Melbourne last year. And he feels that he is good enough to get in the ring with the champ, notwithstanding warnings from as far away as London where a boxing writer foresaw the end of the fight game.

Rademacher laughs at the ridicule.

"Everybody in camp seems to be trying to protect me from the wisecracks being made about the fight," he says. "They edit the paper for me. All I get is the front page and the funnies. They even cut out Joe Palooka. They don't want me to read anything about boxing. But I know what people are saying and it rolls off me.

"I go into every fight, I don't care how big he is or how rough he is, with the idea of being relaxed."

Conservative and Quiet

Rademacher is a conservative, quiet person. He wears a gray flannel suit nicely and speaks with intelligence on most subjects. What's left of his balding hair is closely cropped and he could be taken for a junior executive, or a professor. He weighs 212 pounds, stands six feet, two and one-half inches.

He is married and the father of a two-year-old daughter. He dreamed of becoming a baseball player and did play college football before going into amateur boxing.

Rademacher was born in Tieton, Wash., a wee town 18 miles west of Yakima. For nine years he attended grade school in Tieton, then his rancher father sent him to Castle Heights Military Academy in Tennessee. After his first year there he contracted rheumatic fever.

"I thought I never would recover from that," he says. "I spent four months in bed and rested for a whole year. But finally I whipped it and went on to participate fully in athletics. I've been perfectly healthy ever since."

His Washington upbringing may be a sentimental reason for choosing Seattle for his first pro fight, but probably more important is the fact that the Washington State Athletic Commission approved it while others across the country would have no part of it.

What the gate will draw is anybody's guess—and not many are guessing $250,000. Present plans do not call for televising the bout.

It does have some similarities to the fight in 1923 between Dempsey and a veteran but second grade pro named Tom Gibbons. The little town of Shelby, Mont., had struck oil and promoters there decided to put Shelby on the map with a championship fight.

Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, demanded a $300,000 guarantee. They got the first $100,000 when they signed and the second 30 days before the fight. When the big day came, and only 28 minutes before fight time, Kearns announced Dempsey would not fight unless they got $50,000 in cash from the gate. The promoters agreed.

Blackhawks Again Prep Loop Champs

The 1957 championship of the local Prep League belongs to the Blackhawks following their 9-6 decision over the Hilltops last night the second win in two games for the winners to take the best-of-three series.

Dan Barton won his 10th game against no defeats for the season as he five-hitted the losers.

Another feature of the game was the longest home run ever hit in Prep League play here when John Bogovich's blow cleared the scoreboard in center field.

By defeating the Hilltops, the 'Hawks copped the title for the fourth time in five years. Rich Kuhar of the champs has had the distinction of playing on all four of those teams.

Bogovich went four for four to pace the winners at bat while Russell Bronson was two for two at bat in addition to fanning 11 batters from the mound. He also, however, walked eight.

Barton fanned nine and walked five and contributed a triple to his own cause. Mike Kunsa doubled for the winners, while Churan hit a two-bagger for the losers.

Kunda emerged up as the league's top hitter with a .540 average for the season.

Pirates Cop 1st-Place Honors in Minors

First place in the local Little League Minors belonged to the Pirates as the Bucs copped the regular season pennant with a 16-14 extra inning triumph over the Braves at the Stadium Annex yesterday.

Denny Tallerico clubbed a double in the seventh frame to drive in two runs and break up a 14-14 tie. The Braves failed to score in their half of the seventh and that was it.

Tom Rocco was the hitting star for the losers as he blasted out a double and triple in a vain effort to turn the tide. Terry O'Toole also put on a terrific show for the losers with five for five but it wasn't enough. Maurice Wade went five for five for the winners.

Today it's the Braves and Yankees in the last regularly-scheduled game of the season with the All-Star tilt set for tomorrow during the annual Recreation Department picnic.

Batting Title Battles Take Over Major League Spotlight

By FRED DOWN

Ted Williams' personal duel with Mickey Mantle and a five-man battle for the National League batting championship take over the spotlight today when the major league pennant races resume.

The races themselves were shoved somewhat into the background with both the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves riding the crest of 5½-game leads over their closest pursuers. Both have reached a point where the team they have most to fear is themselves.

The various contenders for the batting titles, however, seem to have just begun to fight.

The American League struggle is the more spectacular because Williams, the Boston Red Sox' 39-year-old perfectionist, and Mantle, the Yankees' 25-year-old nature boy, seem destined to fight it out in the rarified atmosphere of .400. When they face each other in Boston tonight, Williams will start with an eight-point edge — .387 to .379—and it could be that the eventual winner will have to hit .400.

Williams has been hitting at an amazing .500-clip since the July 11 All-Star Game and there are no signs that he will taper off sharply in the remaining 44 games of the season. He is gunning for his fifth batting title with an average that he has topped only once in a full season—in 1941 when he hit .406

Mantle, meanwhile, has been staging a spectacular drive of his own with a .565 average for his last 14 games. He is gunning for the unprecedented feat of winning tw triple crowns in succession and with 123 walks is a good bet to wpe out Babe Ruth's season mark of 170.

Defending champion Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves is the current National League leader at .338 with 36-year-old Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals next at .332, shortstop Dick Groat of the Pittsburgh Pirates third at .330 and Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs tied for fourth at .329.

Groat, Mays and Robinson have been the "hot" hitters of the league for the last three weeks (ranging from Groat's .365 to Robinson's .420 over that span) and Groat and Mays have the advantage of not having to worry about a pennant race. Aaron and Robinson will be facing each other in Cincinnati tonight, Musial plays an afternoon game in Chicago, Groat and the Pirates are at Philadelphia and Mays and the Giants entertain the Brooklyn Dodgers at the Polo Grounds.

Split Decision in Turtle Creek Bout

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Ray Lancaster, 144 pounds of Spartansburg S.C., won a 10-round split decision over Al Maroti, 141, of Youngstown, Ohio, Monday night in a dull, holding bout at Turtle Creek Stadium.

Lancaster was a late substitute for Pittsburgh lightweight Henry Hickman, who dislocated a shoulder in a workout.

The preliminaries:

Johnny Bridges, 148½, Youngstown won by TKO over Jimmy Chavis, 148½, McKeesport, Pa., at 1:05 of the first round.

Larry Huff, 183½, Pittsburgh, won by TKO over Lucky Green, 174, Pittsburgh, at 1:35 of the fifth round.

Gene Tippett, 150, Pittsburgh, decisioned Willie Epps, 148½, of Youngstown, in six rounds.

Walter Ingram, 122, Steubenville Ohio, knocked out Richard White 129½, Youngstown, at 1:50 of the second round.

Mert Brownfield, 173, Turtle Creek, knocked out Charley White, 172, Youngstown, at 1:59 of the first round.

Ex-Champ's Death Listed Accidental

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Police today listed the death of Albert (Chalky) Wright, 45, former world featherweight boxing champion, as an accidental drowning in the bathroom of his mother's home.

Officers said Wright, who suffered from a heart condition, apparently fell in the bathtub Monday. Efforts to revive him by a fire department rescue squad failed.

Wright, a native of Durango, Mexico, launched his boxing career in 1937. He won the featherweight crown in an 11th-round knockout over Joey Archibald on Sept. 11, 1941 and lost the title to Willie Pep on Sept. 29, 1944.

Legal Requirements Set For Dog Training Season

The dog training season is August 1 to March 31. Such training is not permissible in the early warm months of the year — April, May, June and July. Most of the young of wildlife are brought forth during that period, and they and their mothers need protection.

So that the law may be complied with and infractions avoided the Game Commission calls attention to these legal requirements. 1. Dogs must be kept under control while being trained. (The Game Law defines "under control" to mean "within call except when actually on the trail or track of legal game".) 2. No injury may be inflicted on game birds or animals. 3. Carrying a shotgun or rifle while dog training is prohibited. 4. Raccoon dogs may be trained from sunrise to midnight; other dogs from sunrise to 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time. 5. Sunday training, except on public lands, is legal only after the property owner's consent has been obtained.

Dogs may not be trained in Pennsylvania on deer, bears or wild turkeys. A hunting license is not required of persons training dogs on game.

Birds 'Deadhead'

"A nest of robins was the center of attraction on the Pennsylvania Railroad recently," says Game Protector Calvin Hooper. "F. N. Jones of Newcastle, a railroad engineer, tells this incident: A robin built a nest on the rear window sill of a caboose, laid three eggs in it and hatched them between trips.

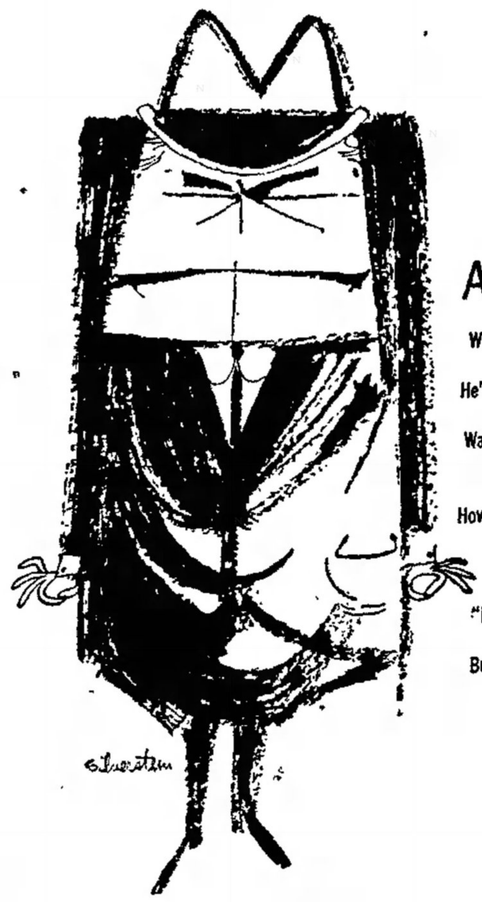
"The caboose, attached to a coal train in the vicinity of Jackson ter, Mercer County, makes a seven-mile round trip five days each week. The number of round trips mother robin made is not known, but the young birds rode in the nest until they were old enough to leave it."

Jenny Wren

During the recent Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge State Park, men engaged in natural resource management conducted groups of the boys through the Conservation Exhibit Areas. They explained to the Scouts the reasons behind the forest, fish, soil and wildlife practices demonstrated there.

Donald E. Miller, a member of the Game Commission's Southeast Division office staff, was one of the guides. He reports: "A part of the wildlife exhibit at the Jamboree was artificial homes and feeding stations for song and insectivorous birds. One display, a wren house, was occupied by a pair of wrens within two hours after being erected. Another, a blue bird house was accepted by a pair of bluebirds the second day after it was put up.

"In conducting one of the Scout groups through the area I mentioned the way these birds had added realism to the exhibit, and suggested the boys might hear the newly housed wrens singing in the vicinity. As this point, as if on cue, a wren burst forth in song".



An angry man is Sylvester T. Bly,
Who today was sold a piece of "blue sky."
He'd stepped in a showroom—out of the rain,
Was sold a new car before he could explain!
How he hated the styling—so high and square
And in new features it was really bare.
"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—
But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

Moral: You're paying for a new car...make sure you get one!

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday. Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead. So put your money on tomorrow. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge!

"Why doesn't he call?"

Every day, all over America, people who are expected home never get there . . . because death on the highway intervenes!

You've waited up for someone. Everybody has. So you know the relief you feel when he finally does come home—or when he calls to say that everything's all right.

But imagine, if you can, waiting and never hearing. Or picking up the phone to hear a stranger's voice.

Last year, 40,000 American families had to suffer this torture. For that's the number of men, women and children who were wiped out in traffic accidents during 1956.

Traffic accidents can be prevented—if you do something about safety now! Won't you help?

BACK THE ATTACK ON TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Here's how you can help stop traffic tragedies:

1. Drive safely and courteously yourself. Observe speed limits and warning-signs. Where traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!
2. Insist on strict enforcement of all traffic laws. Traffic regulations work for you, not against you. Where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go DOWN!

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our father and grandfather, Andrew Pacak, Sr., who died 11 years ago today, August 13, 1946.
We loved you in life, you are dear to us still.
In grief we must bend to God's holy will,
Parting was pain, the shock hard to bear,
Now angels attend you in heaven with care.
But unknown to the world,
You stand by our side
And whisper dear loved ones,
Death cannot divide
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren

Nuns Contract Typhoid Fever

OLDENBURG, Ind. (UP)—The number of Roman Catholic nuns known to be stricken with typhoid has doubled since an outbreak of the disease at a convent here was discovered, a health official said today.

The state health commissioner, Dr. Andrew Offutt, said 37 cases have been reported at the Sisters of St. Francis motherhouse.

An early count Friday had shown only 16 of the more than 500 nuns there were afflicted with the disease, not definitely diagnosed as typhoid until Monday. Offutt said weekend investigations by a state epidemiological team showed none of the cases took effect later than Aug. 4.

Good Samaritan Class Meets in Outdoor Session

Twenty-three members and two guests attended the annual outdoor meeting of the Good Samaritan Sunday School Class of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church which was held last Friday evening at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sykes.

Mrs. Joseph Rieser was in charge of devotions, using the theme, "Modern day Psalms". Featured was an Indian version of the twenty-third Psalm.

Mrs. Thelma Medsger conducted the business session. It was announced that the class will serve the sixth annual banquet of the Greater West Newton Baseball Association this Thursday evening at the parish house of the church.

The first sewing session of the group will be held on Wednesday, September 4, from 11 a. m. until 2 p. m. All members are urged to be present with the boxes of supplies they have been assembling, so that the sewing project for Bethesda Children's Home may be started.

A game was provided by Mrs. Dorothy Specht. Lunch was served by Mrs. Sykes, Mrs. Audrey Myers, and Mrs. Isabel Striker.

Baseball Meeting Slated Tonight

The Greater West Newton Baseball Association will hold its regular monthly meeting in the West Newton Borough Building tonight at 8 p. m. All officers are requested to be present since numerous decisions are to be made before this year's business can be closed.

A Field Day is being planned for the players of both Little League and PONY League. The boys will be guests of the Smithton Theatre where they will be shown a baseball picture. Following the matinee they will be taken to the West Newton Lions Park where numerous events and contests will be held. A lunch will be served the boys after the program.

There Are Three Systems of Pay-as-you-go Television

(Second of a series of dispatches)

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Toll television, like Gaul, is divided into three parts.

They are called phonevision, subscriber-vision and telemeter.

All three systems can be delivered by wire (like your telephone) or by air (like the telecasts you receive now). Wire is the more expensive method, but one of its virtues is that presumably, the show would not have to be scrambled to thwart free-loaders.

The innards of each over-the-air system are almost as complicated as a folding beach chair. But the outer mechanisms that would be stuck onto your TV set are as simple to work as a telephone or parking meter. All you need are a set of fingers and a willingness to pay.

How They Work

Here is the breakdown on the scrambled systems:

Phonevision is the system of the Zenith Radio Corp., a Chicago firm that has been tinkering with pay TV since the mid-1930's. Phonevision gets its name from Zenith's early experiments with TV by telephone wire, a plan it has since junked.

Under the phonevision system, a gadget about the size of a kitchen radio would be attached to your TV set. The gadget contains five dials and is used to unscramble the electronic omelet put into one of your channels by phonevision. One expert in the toll TV field, Dr. Millard Faught, believes the gadget would cost less than $25.

Each month, the phonevision customer would receive a program card in the mail. It would tell him what numbers to dial for the shows he wanted to see. For example, if the subscriber wanted to watch a pay-TV movie on Tuesday night, his card might tell him to dial "65453" on his decoder. If he wanted to watch a fight on Thursday, he might have to dial "45321."

Each subscriber would have a different set of numbers to dial—so that it would be impossible for neighbors to cheat the system by sharing code numbers.

Mails Monthly Card

The program cards are so constructed that every time a subscriber wishes to see what numbers to dial for a show, he has to rip through a series of perforations for each event. At the end of the month, he mails the card back to phonevision where the number of perforations are totaled up and his bill calculated.

Subscriber—vision is a development of the Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp., a public corporation. However, a private firm, Skiatron TV, is the outfit which is out hustling subscriber-vision. Skiatron TV is the firm that has sweet-talked the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants into its camp. Five per cent of Skiatron TV's annual gross goes to Skiatron electronics.

Its pay TV system, fortunately, is less complicated than its financial set-up. Under subscriber-vision, the customer would have a decoder unit hooked on his set.

It's figured under mass production, the units would cost less than $20. The subscriber - vision consumer gets a special IBM card each month which contains information about the shows to be cast. If a subscriber wants to see a toll show, he inserts the IBM card into a slot in his de-coder when the show is about to go on.

He then pushes a button on his de-coder which punches a hole in the card. That completes an electronic circuit which un-jumbles the show. The card is mailed back each month for billing.

Uses Coin Box

Telemeter is a subsidiary of Paramount Pictures, which owns 90 per cent of it. Telemeter attaches a coin box to the set and Louis Novins, vice - president of telemeter, thinks it should cost around $7.50 to install.

The telemeter box gobbles up any kind of loot from a nickel to a 50 cent piece. It's geared to charge as much as $2.00 for a show. If you don't have the right change for a show, you can overpay and the box will credit you for the next program.

Pat Boone Plans to Nix Kissing Scenes

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Pat Boone has finished two movies and a telfilm without kissing the heroine—and he may never except in special instances, he served notice today, because "a star has a moral responsibility to his fans."

"Not that I'm against kissing," the earnest, sincere new singer said. "But some of my young fans may wonder why I kiss girls on the screen when in real life I'm married.

"You have to think of the influence you have upon the people who watch you perform.

This Is The Standard

"Whether I will ever kiss a girl on the screen, I don't know. It depends on the script. If I decide the fans could separate Boone the actor from Boone the person, perhaps I would kiss a girl in a movie—if the love scene were clean and wholesome, such as young lovers or a husband and wife, the kind you would want your children to see.

"I never would act in a love scene that was suggestive, such as on a couch."

An approved love scene, he says, could have been in his second movie for 20th Century Fox Studio, "Apron Love." The script called for him to almost, but not quite, kiss Shirley Jones. He was considering kissing her, but the resultant publicity made him decide not to "or my fans would think I had been pressured into the kiss by the director."

Pat also just finished filming a guest appearance on "The Gale Storm Show," to be seen on CBS-TV later this year, and in tender romantic scenes with Gale he doesn't buss her, either.

"I have to remember teen-agers who look at the screen and do not forget I am Pat Boone," he explained.

"An entertainer has a tremendous obligation to his fans. Some entertainers think they should be allowed to lead completely private lives and do as they please without the press or fans knowing about it.

"But I think entertainers, especially those who appeal to young people, should not think that way. I don't see how a fellow who knows he influences young people can say he wants to live his own life.

"I welcome the opportunity to help teen-agers by setting an example. I am in a dangerous position because I influence teenagers. If I should decide to smoke and hurt my own body, I also would be hurting other bodies of people who would smoke just because I did."

Art Pallan to Appear Soon in Movie 'Bit' Role

Art Pallan, one of the nation's ten top-rated disc jockeys, will have a "bit" part in a new Universal-International moving picture, it was announced today by Guy Harris, KDKA Program Manager.

Harris reported that Pallan will spend the last three days of the month in Hollywood. He will play a cowboy in a western film, "Once Upon A Horse."

For Pallan, his selection was a real thrill, since the movie company chose only 10 disc jockeys from across the nation. The invitation came during the same week that Art was featured in a national magazine, "Radio-TV Mirror," as one of the nation's top record spinners.

Art took a three-week vacation from KDKA beginning yesterday. He will be replaced on his 10 a. m. to noon show by Sterling Yates, and on his 4 to 6 p. m. show by John Stewart, and from 6:15 to 7.30 p. m. by John Soller.

The KDKA disc jockey will be accompanied to Hollywood by his wife Agnes.

Bee's Sting Leads To Traffic Death

SELINSGROVE Pa (UP)- A bee's sting was blamed yesterday for the traffic death of 10-year-old Jerry Schemk of Middlesburg.

Police said Jerry was stung by a bee and fled across a road into the path of an automobile driven by Fred Kensler, of Northumberland. The boy was pronounced dead of a skull fracture by Dr William Weber, Snider County coroner.

Your Health—

Why Do Businessmen Often Get Ulcers?

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

The most likely candidates for ulcers are hard-working, anxiety-drive individuals. Businessmen and executives of large firms are also good examples of the "ulcer type."

Why?

Experiments with animals seem to give us a pretty good idea.

At the University of Chicago, experiments conducted by the department of surgery indicate that squeezing actions cause the lower part of the stomach to release a hormone called gastrin. This hormone in turn induces the lining of the upper stomach to secrete gastric juices.

In the case of individuals constantly under tension the vagus nerve, between the stomach and the brain, overworks its job of stimulating the stomach's churning. Consequently, there is an overabundance of the acid-rich juices which are normally supplied by the upper stomach to digest food.

This abnormal quantity of acid begins to eat away the stomach lining and causes gastric ulcers. Sometimes the juices will spill over into the first loop of the intestines. Very often this results in duodenal ulcers.

When foods containing little or no acid are eaten, gastric juices are secreted to help digest them. Adding acids to the foods used in the experiments, however, stopped the flow of the juices.

These experiments indicate pretty plainly that in normal persons, acidity is a natural "shut-off valve" for gastric juices.

However, in persons who are anxious or nervous, ulcers are likely to develop from the secretion of too much gastric juice either because of a shut-off failure or overstimulation of the vagus nerve.

And that, it appears, is why so many of you businessmen have ulcers.

New Zealand Leader Resigns

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UP) — Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland resigned yesterday because of ill health. He will be succeeded by Keith J. Holyoake, deputy prime minister and minister of agriculture.

Holland, 64, made the announcement at the annual conference of his Free Enterprise National Party, which has ruled New Zealand since 1949. The party is preparing for a tough general election campaign against the Labor Party.

Holland said his retirement will take effect at the end of the present campaign, probably in October. He said he will nominate Holyoake as head of the National Party Tuesday at a special caucus of the party's members of Parliament.

Party sources said Holyoake would take over the prime minister's duties Tuesday.

Holland's retirement was forced by a recurring back ailment.

Military Services Trim Away More Civilian Workers

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Defense Department's economy axe swung toward civilian industrial employment today as the military planned further cutbacks to keep within its 38-billion-dollar budget.

In the most direct path of budget cutters are the aircraft and allied industries which may suffer 100,000 or more layoffs next fall because of scheduled Air Force slashes.

The latest Air Force move was Monday's announcement of a 5 per cent cutback in its own civilian personnel by the end of October. Accompaying the move was a request that Air Force contractors, except those handling ballistic missile work, make "corresponding cuts."

Military spokesmen explained the contractors will not be required to make all their cuts in payrolls. Some reductions, they felt, can be made in other fields such as reducing overhead costs.

However, it was estimated the effect of the move, plus previous Air Force project cuts, would trim employment in the aircraft and aircraft parts industry from the current 910,000 to about 770,000. That would be about the level of early 1956.

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—A Strategic Air Command B47 Stratojet bomber early yesterday completed an 11,450-mile non stop flight from Guam to Morocco in 22 hours and 50 minutes, Pinecastle Air Force Base announced.

Capt. Albert J. MCGill, base public information officer, said the Air Force did not immediately evaluate the leap halfway around the world but said officials hoped for a "record" for a flight of this type.

A recent record Stratojet hop around the world was completed in 45 hours and 19 minutes.
